

CSS Assignment Solutions

1. Which property is used in CSS for setting the background color of an element?

Answer: background-color

2. What does "flex" refer to when discussing Flexbox layouts in CSS?

Answer: B. An alignment method that allows elements within a container to be placed and sized flexibly based on the available space

3. Which selector is used when you want to style all images with alt text "logo" within a webpage?

Answer: A correct CSS selector would be: `img[alt="logo"]`

4. Which CSS property can be used to create space between elements?

Answer: margin or padding (gap is for flex/grid layouts)

5. What does the "rem" unit in CSS stand for and when is it typically used?

Answer: B. Relative, based on root element font-size